

IN A CRASH OF DEATH
MANY WERE CAUGHTFRIGHTFUL DISASTER ON NEW YORK SEA BEACH ROAD.

Excursion Train Loaded With Passengers Run Down By a "Wildcat" Engine After Which the Cars Took Fire—At Least Fifty People Injured.

New York, Sept. 3.—A "wildcat" engine on the New York Seaboard Railway ran away from the Bay Ridge depot shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and crashed into the rear of the 3:10 p. m. train which was on its way to Coney Island and was standing at Woodlawn Park. The rear car of the forward train was badly smashed, and more than fifty persons were injured.

The injured were removed in wagons to near-by cottages and farmhouses. The police had a great deal of trouble keeping the large crowd in order.

All the available ambulances in Brooklyn were sent to the scene. The police reserves of the Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth precincts, and the Eighteenth subprecinct were called out, and were soon on the ground clearing the wreck and doing all in their power for the injured.

The wrecked train was crowded to its utmost capacity with excursionists on their way to the big Central Labor union picnic, which was being held at Coney Island. A short stop had been made at Woodlawn Park, and just as the train was getting ready to start the "wildcat" engine came flying along.

There was no time to give warning.

The wild engine was seen coming at full speed, and a moment later it dashed into the rear coach, scattering the panic-stricken passengers in every direction, and hurling upon them the wrecked car, which was smashed out of all semblance to a railroad coach.

There were in the train eighteen cars, and each one was packed with excursionists, mostly women and children. The last car was demolished in the twinkling of an eye, and the engine went grinding its way through the next one. The debris of the two cars at once caught fire, and for a time it seemed certain that one of the most terrible disasters known to the rail would be enacted. Indeed, the wonder is that ten were not injured where there was one, and that scores were not killed.

In the cars that were piled up in the ditch 300 persons had been riding and it was miraculous that two-thirds of that number were not seriously injured. The unfortunates did what they could to relieve the suffering, but that was little enough, and the minutes that elapsed before the arrival of physicians seemed an age.

George I. Johnston and John W. McMahon, both of this city, were on the seventh car from the wrecked train. Mr. Johnston, when seen, said:

"The whole eighteen cars were crowded, the majority being women and children. The train was standing at the station. We were talking and laughing, little dreaming of an accident. Suddenly there was a crash. The shock was not severe enough to upset us in the car where we were, but of course we knew that something was the matter."

"The passengers swarmed from the forward cars and all ran to the rear, where the wreck was. There a horrible scene met our eyes. An engine had telescoped two cars, and the second car had telescoped the one in front of it. There was an uproar of confusion. Passengers who were not hurt ran wildly about shrieking for their friends. Women fainted by the score. We could see men and women buried in the wreck. Then the fire broke out, and the only water that could be got at first was carried from the engine in a tin can."

DR. FRAKER CAUGHT.

Notorious Insurance Swindler in the Clutches of the Law.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 3.—George Fraker of Excelsior Springs, Mo., who was supposed to have been drowned in the Missouri river two years ago, was captured in the woods near Tower, Minn., Monday. Fraker's life was insured for $58,000 and the heirs brought suit in the Kansas courts to recover. The case went to the Supreme court and was one of the most famous insurance cases of the country. The insurance companies were defeated in the final decision, it being recorded last month. It was always maintained by the companies that Fraker was alive, but his whereabouts were unknown. Recently it became known in some way that Fraker was near Tower, where he was known under the alias of Schnell.

Attorney Robert T. Herrick and Deputy Sheriff Wilkinson of Topeka came here and organized a party to search for him. Fraker was found in the woods and his capture was effected by strategy. He was brought to Duluth and started with the officers for Topeka in the afternoon. He goes without a requisition. He has been living near Tower for six months. He admitted his identity, and said he did not leave home on purpose to defraud the companies, but that while he was near the Missouri river he fell in. He swam across the river and got on land. The next day he read in the papers that he had been drowned, and concluded to carry out the deception and allow his heirs to collect the insurance. A reward of $20,000 for Fraker's capture was offered some time ago by the insurance companies.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.

Young Arkansas Physician Kills His Mother and Himself.

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 3.—Dr. E. M. Remington, a prominent young physician who came here about eight months ago from Atlanta, Ga., and his mother were found dead in their residence on Whittington avenue yesterday morning. Their bodies were badly decomposed, and after an investigation it became apparent that it was a case of murder and suicide. The bodies had evidently lain in the building since Friday night last. It appears that Dr. Remington was in hard lines financially and being unable to provide for his widowed mother in that style of comfort that was his desire he made up his mind to end her existence as well as his own. He crept into her room after she had fallen asleep and crushed her skull with an ax. He then went into an adjoining room and stabbed himself three times in the left breast and severed the arteries in both wrists. The murderer and suicide left no word of explanation as to why he committed the terrible deed.

Hinshaw's Trial to Begin.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—The trial of Rev. William E. Hinshaw, the young Methodist minister who is jail under indictment charged with the murder of his wife, will begin tomorrow morning in the Hendricks County circuit court, at Danville, Ind. Over two hundred witnesses have been subpoenaed and a special venire of 100 talesmen has been drawn from those to select the jury. Some of the best legal talent in the state is employed on each side. The town is greatly excited over the approaching trial and nearly every residence has been turned into a boarding house.

Speakers' Stand Gives Way.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 3.—During the Labor-day exercises here, just after the speakers had finished their addresses, the stand on which they stood gave way. Thirty persons went down to the ground with a crash, and were soon struggling to get out of the broken timbers and boards. Those most seriously hurt are:

Doner, Miss Fannie.

Garten, Miss Emma.

Garten, Miss Mary.

Others received bad bruises and had pieces of skin scratched off their bodies.

Durrant's Trial Postponed.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 3.—The trial of Theodore Durrant did not proceed yesterday. Rather than invite any complications, which might arise through holding court on a federal holiday, the court granted the motion of the defense, concurred in by the prosecution, and adjourned until morning.

CZAR'S LIFE SAVED
BY ROYAL POLICEDEEP LAID PLOT DISCOVERED
IN TIME.

Plan Was to Kill The Emperor And Others of The Imperial Family—Woman Dies of the Cholera at Grimsby, England—Other News From Foreign Lands.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 3.—The police have discovered a widespread plot against the life of the czar and other members of the imperial family which they were fortunately able to frustrate.

London, Sept. 3.—A woman is said to have died at Grimsby today, of cholera.

English View of German Celebrations.

London, Sept. 3.—In a leading article the Globe expresses the opinion that the German celebrations endanger the peace of Europe. The tone of the Berlin papers, says the Globe, has been offensive, and such as to needlessly wound the feelings of the French people. The emperor has allowed himself on more than one occasion recently to use language which is at least capable of being misunderstood. While the Globe does not believe that the emperor desires war, his utterances, it is said, are assuredly not such as further peace.

Railroad Bridges Out.

Mexico City, Sept. 3.—All rail communication with American cities in the Mississippi valley and eastward has stopped owing to extensive washouts and the destruction of bridges on the Mexican National railway. The wires are also down, but it is hoped to re-establish communication tomorrow. This is the first time for many years that traffic has been seriously interrupted. Twelve bridges are down.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 3.—The city and the river are obscured by smoke and dangerous forest fires are raging between here and Waskai bay. The fire is about four miles wide. Ashes fell in the city today. Farmhouses and settlements are in danger, and some loss of property has already resulted. It is very dry. Navigation in the river is made difficult.

No News of Rhodes' Death.

London, Sept. 3.—The South Africa company has heard nothing of any illness of Premier Rhodes of Cape Colony and there is no news of his death in London.

WORKINGMEN MARCH
IN MANY STATES

THE HOLIDAY WAS APPROPRIATELY OBSERVED.

Rival Parades are Held at Chicago and Kier Hardie and John Swinton Deliver Addresses Yesterday—Parades and Gatherings the Longest On Record.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Although there was a split in the ranks of organized labor and two rival parades were formed, there was no hint of trouble and everybody was good-natured. Neither the Labor Congress nor the Building Trades Council can claim any advantage in the matter of the street parade.

KEIR HARDIE.

Each body turned out about 15,000 men, the marchers were splendidly arrayed, and both parties were memorable sights. A grand demonstration was given at the Auditorium in the evening. Keir Hardie and John Swinton were the speakers of the occasion, and an immense crowd was in the big theater to hear the famous socialist and author.

SENATOR VOORHEES TALKS.

Imprisonment of Debs Bitterly Denounced at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 3.—Labor day was celebrated here with a parade in the morning and exercises and amusements at the fair grounds in the afternoon. There were 10,000 at the grounds, many of whom listened to the speeches of Senator Voorhees and Colonel McLean, ex-deputy commissioner of pensions. Senator Voorhees, referring to Debs' imprisonment, said:

"A ranker, grosser and bitter piece of injustice never blotted the page of our federal judiciary. I am the last person to be responsible for William A. Woods, because I opposed his confirmation by the Senate. I did so because he is a narrow man. He has plenty of ability, but he lacks the underlying principles of honesty." The senator advised his hearers that they must not violate the laws, but should elect men to make laws that would be acceptable to them. A letter from Debs was also read.

New York Celebrates Quietly.

New York, Sept. 3.—Yesterday was the first Labor day that has not witnessed a general parade of all the trades in this city and vicinity. This fact is considered significant of the general condition this year of New York working people; with but a few exceptions, there are no questions to be agitated and no victories to be celebrated.

The holiday was generally observed throughout the city, many of the largest houses closed, and a few who opened in the morning closed at noon. Most of the state and federal offices of the city also observed the day.

George Howard Speaks at Joliet, Ill.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 3.—Labor day was observed in this city and through Will county. Business and manufacturing of all kinds were suspended. In this city a grand celebration took place under the auspices of the Central Trade and Labor council. George W. Howard, general secretary of the American Industrial union, who served a three-months' jail sentence in this city for the part he took in the railway strike last year, spoke.

At Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 3.—The biggest Labor day demonstration that this city has ever known occurred here yesterday. Business houses were generally closed and the city was in holiday attire. A parade in which every labor union in the city took part marched through the principal streets in the morning. There were about 10,000 people in line.

At Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Labor day was celebrated by the workmen in this city in the conventional way by a parade of the trades unions, followed by a picnic at Germania Park, where orators held forth and music echoed and lager flowed. Nearly 8,000 men were in line. Henry Lloyd of Boston was the American orator and Jos Mosier spoke in German.

At Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—Labor day was duly observed in this city. The weather was perfect. Two thousand union men paraded in the morning and in the afternoon several thousand people gathered at the state fair grounds and were addressed by President John McBride of the American Federation of Labor. Most of the business houses were closed during the afternoon.

At Boston.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 3.—Organized labor yesterday observed its holiday with its usual parade, and with almost innumerable sports and amusements. The spectacle of the day was the parade of the labor organizations of the city and vicinity, in which over 9,000 men participated.

At St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 3.—Beautiful weather contributed to the success of the Labor day celebration here. All the banks, exchanges, courts, and the city offices were closed and many retail stores gave their clerks a holiday. The labor organizations united in a parade of the principal streets at noon. Four thousand were in line.

At Washington.

Washington, Sept. 3.—So much trouble has been caused in labor circles by the proposal to read the "scathing denunciation of the federal courts for the imprisonment of Debs" that a much milder form of protest was adopted and read at the exercises yesterday. It was not enthusiastically received.

At Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 3.—Labor day was celebrated in Omaha rather modestly. An interesting event was a communication from E. V. Debs to Omaha laboring men, read at the labor meetings, in which he advocated organization and the ballot as a remedy for existing evils.

Peffer and Waite Make Addresses.

Tiffin, O., Sept. 3.—Five thousand people came to Tiffin to witness the Labor day festivities. Addresses were delivered by Senator Peffer of Kansas and ex-Governor Waite of Colorado to about 3,000 people at River View Park.

At Birmingham, Ala.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 3.—Resolutions of sympathy for Eugene V. Debs were passed, and President Cleveland and Judge Woods were censured for his imprisonment.

At Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 3.—Governor Morrill, of Kansas, and ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson spoke here yesterday. Five thousand men paraded.

The Day Observed in Canada.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 3.—Labor day was generally observed as a holiday throughout the cities of Ontario, Canada.

VETERANS REVIEWED.

Germany's Emperor Says Kind Words to Americans.

Berlin, Sept. 3.—Kaiser Wilhelm reviewed the German-American war veterans, including several fresh arrivals from Chicago, on the Tempelhof field yesterday. The emperor said he was gratified that the veterans had not forgotten their old home. He remained on the ground fifteen minutes. After the parade was finished, the King of Wurtemberg rode up and saluted the veterans from America. Many officers of high rank saluted the Americans and had Mr. Schlenker and others presented to them. The emperor and empress were cheered enthusiastically along the route from the palace to the parade ground. After saluting the Americans the emperor and empress reviewed the entire bodyguard and at the conclusion the emperor took his place at the head of the colors and led the regiments back to the city. He was received with enthusiastic ovations along the entire route, which was thronged with people who pelted him with flowers.

A COSTLY WRECK.

Santa Fe Railroad Loses Many Thousand Dollars.

Wenona, Ill., Sept. 3.—The Santa Fe railroad, which runs three miles south of this city, had a big wreck yesterday, which resulted in thirteen cars being piled up. It was caused by a broken flange on the third box cars from the engine. The cars were laden with household goods, baled hay, lead, etc. Those that contained the lead went to pieces as if they were mere cigar boxes. Two wrecking crews went immediately to work, and by 5 o'clock the track, which was torn up for a distance of 150 yards, was relaid and traffic resumed. A brakeman who was standing on top of the train at the time of the accident had his left leg dislocated. The loss to the company will amount to several thousand dollars.

Big Grain Dealer in Trouble.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 3.—The wheat trade here is excited over the well-authenticated report that F. H. Peavey, the big elevator man, is "long" on September wheat, and wishes to settle with elevator companies and avoid delivery. It is a case of a quarrel among elevator men. They have not forgotten Peavey for forcing cash wheat to a premium a year ago, and eating up their carrying charges. It is now a question of delivery. The elevators propose to deliver to Peavey, much to his disgust.

Fell Under a Train.

Massillon, Ohio, Sept. 3.—Charles Koontz, aged 17, met with a horrible death last night in attempting to alight from a moving C. & W. freight. He was thrown under the wheels and his head was severed from his body.

Village.

Emerald Grove, Sept. 3.—A light frost is reported from low-lying farms near here. It left traces that were plainly visible, but tobacco and corn do not seem to have suffered. The storm last week was the most severe of this season; several inches of water fell, accompanied by wind and lightning. Corn in many places was blown flat to the ground, and many shade and apple trees were broken off. Lightning struck many buildings, but in every case no fire followed it. Peter McNeer had his barn unroofed and his windmill blown down through the roof of his house. Considerable stock was killed in the vicinity. The Y. P. S. C. E. will serve peaches with cream on Thursday evening of this week at the home of Mrs. Butler. Ladies please furnish cake. A special invitation is extended to neighboring societies. On Friday of last week, Mrs. Margaret McLay, Mrs. Agnes Clark, Miss Mae Clark and Miss Agnes Wallace of Janesville, visited relatives here. James Gillies and family are visiting at Evansville. S. H. Locke is buying cattle in Northern Wisconsin for winter feeding. School began in the village on Monday under charge of Miss Jennie D. McArthur. Attendance thirty-four. ROLLING DIRT ROADS DOESN'T PAY Alderman Smith Complains That the City Gets No Good Results.

"After they experiment with that street roller a little more," said Alderman Smith today, "they will find just as some of us suspected from the first, that a good street can't be made unless the full macadam process is used. That means excavating for eighteen inches and building up from the bottom just as you would build up a wall. You couldn't get two signatures to macadamize any street in Janesville. The cost would be prohibitory, and as for this idea of 'picking up the street' and rolling it down again with a little crushed stone mixed in, the city wastes every dollar that it spends. Block paving is the cheapest and the best thing that any city, situated as Janesville is, can use. The three aldermen who voted to defer buying a roller, would vote the same way today."

96 IN JAIL; '97 IN WHITE HOUSE
Enthusiastic Prophecy Made By Friends of the Imprisoned Labor Leader.

The Janesville delegation on the accommodation had the benefit of a little labor demonstration of their own yesterday. A telegram was passed around between Woodstock and Crystal Lake, reading:
"95 in the Woodstock jail; '97 in the White House."

The dispatch was from a Chicago labor union to Debs and a copy was brought on the train at Woodstock so the passengers could share in the enthusiasm.

Expect a Large Trade.

In anticipation of a large fall and winter trade, the Bee Hive, on West Milwaukee street, has purchased a larger stock of goods than ever before. So far as can be seen, the line of goods is as good, and in some instances far better than ever before shown in the city, and prices on every article are lower than elsewhere. They carry a special line of ladies' shoes made by the Ludlows, and a line of men's shoes known as the Royal Blue made by Seltz, Schwab & Co., of Chicago. Both of these makes have no recommendation they have reputations as the best on the market. The school season has been well cared for in their stock especially boys and children's clothing, the stock being particularly adapted for school wear, strong, etc. In ladies' wearing apparel most anything that can be wanted they have in great variety. The Bee Hive, Leo Mayer, Prop.

GIBBONS HOUSE FIRED FOR THE THIRD TIME

INCENDIARY BLAZE RUINED A HOUSE THIS MORNING.

Twice Before the Building Has Been Ignited in the Dead of Night—Department Held Six Minutes By a Blocked Railroad Crossing—Loss Will Be About $500.

Janesville fire department fought for the third time with the same incendiary fire at 2:30 o'clock this morning when the residence of John F. Gibbons, 251 Palm street was about destroyed entailing a loss estimated at five or six hundred dollars. The department worked at great disadvantage. The alarm was sent in from box 54 and the apparatus was soon on the way. When they arrived at the railroad crossing however, they found their passage blocked by a long train of freight cars. They waited six minutes before the switch engine could remove the cars and in that time the fire was improving its excellent opportunities. When the cars were finally pulled away and the apparatus was allowed to pass the building was a mass of flames. The house was located so far from the water mains that but one stream of water could be utilized and owing to this fact and the delay caused by the blocked crossing, it was sixteen minutes before any water was thrown on the flames.

Fire Set Three Times.

The building was a story and a half frame structure with a wing on one side. It was owned and occupied by Mr. Gibbons, who lived therein, alone. Yesterday afternoon he was not feeling well, however, and went to the home of his daughter to stay last night. It was a lucky thing he did, for had he been asleep in the house, ill and alone, the result might have been different as the wooden structure burned with great rapidity. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin. Twice before the department had been called to the same house and it begins to look as if someone cherished a desire to burn Mr. Gibbons out. Last night they were more successful than heretofore. None of the contents were removed, but the loss on that building will be about $500 and is said to be insured.

THE AVARICIOUS SHEPHERDESS

[From the French of Charles Dufresny, 1708.]
Phyllis fair, one luckless day,
Avaricious little miss,
Made her poor Sylvander pay
Thirty sheep for one small kiss.

But the next day brought redress,
And the shepherd bartered cheap,
Getting from the shepherdess
Thirty kisses for a sheep.

Next day she in fear, alack,
Lest he should withhold the bliss,
Gladly gave the shepherd back
Thirty sheep for one more kiss.

Phyllis, mad with love, next day Offered sheep and dog to get Whit theascal, so they say,
Gave for nothing to Lisette.

FASHION NOTES.

Embroidered Collars and Cuffs—Belts of Gold Braid and Ribbon.

For wear with untrimmed bodices there are shown large flaring collars and cuffs of dead white embroidery trimmed with butter colored valenciennes lace. These are pretty, and as they stand laundering well really give in wear their money's worth. A belt and collar of gold braid, caught with jet hooks and eyes, are in vogue and may be worn with any dark colored or all white bodice. The collar is formed of gold braid a little over an inch wide, while the belt is 2 inches wide, and the clasps are selected to suit the width of each. Belts may be of silk, ribbon or leather. Seal or snakeskin belts, with silver buckles, are liked for outing or traveling wear, and very often have bags to match put upon them, but for an elaborate waist a leather belt is not considered in good taste. The regular belting can be found in any color and is most effective when its clasp is a small gold buckle elaborately carved. Young girls fancy silver buckles upon which are engraved their monograms, but these can scarcely be spoken of as new, though they are popular.

Alpaca is fashionable enough now to make up for the long years of neglect it has suffered. It is the material for autumn costumes, and only its inevitable light weight prevents it from dominating the winter as well. Quite possibly it will come up as fresh as ever next spring, although it must perforce retire during cold weather in favor of warmer fabrics. It is to be hoped that the coming winter will be less severe than was the last, the hardness of which gave ample excuse for the rage for furs which continued into the spring.

The sketch shows an autumn toilet of chasseur blue cloth. The bodice skirt has an application at the top of dark blue velvet embroidered with steel, gold and spangles. The blouse of blue cloth has a fold of velvet in front embroidered like the upper part of the skirt and is fitted behind. The collar is of blue velvet trimmed with flowers. The gigot sleeves are of plain blue cloth. The black hat is trimmed with immense bows of the ribbon and a gold buckle.

Crockery.
The most complete line of crockery in the city, either plain or decorated. Prices cannot be equalled. Lowell's Annex.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON AT 11 TONIGHT

FAIR LUNA'S SURFACE TO BE HIDDEN.

Second Obscuration This Year and Janesville Gets the Full Benefit—Calculation as to The Duration of the Passage—Suggestion By Prof. Bacon.

Tonight occurs the second eclipse of the moon this year and Janesville gets the full benefit.

It will be a total eclipse and the phases are timed as follows:

Moon enters shadow, eclipse begins, 10 h. 00 m.

Total eclipse begins, 11 h. 06 m.

Middle of eclipse, 11 h. 57 m.

Total eclipse ends, 12 h. 47 m.

Moon leaves shadow, eclipse ends, 1 h. 54 m.

At ten o'clock the observer should see a dull, irregular darkening on the eastern limb of the moon, about 54 degrees from the north point of the disc.

It will be interesting to notice the gradual increase in the number and brightness of the stars visible, as the eclipse progresses, and to note how the fading light makes it impossible to read a watch face or page of a book, which is an easy matter in full moonlight.

Professor Bacon of Beloit suggests that comparison can be made of the depth of color of the moon with that of the last eclipse in March, 1895. One or two cases are on record where the moon became almost invisible, on account of the dense clouds on the surface of the earth, through which the light vainly tried to pass, but failed. Were there no atmosphere on the earth, the shadow line on the moon would be as sharp and clear-cut as the shadow line on the sun from the moon at the time of a solar eclipse, and the eclipsed moon would then be entirely invisible.

A REMARKABLE CURE.

A CASE OF PILES OF EIGHTEEN YEARS STANDING.

Cured by the Pyramid Pile Cure.

There are plenty of pile cures which give relief and sometimes cure a mild case of piles, but there is only one which can be depended upon with certainty to cure obstinate, long standing cases, and that is the Pyramid Pile Cure.

Endorsements and testimonials are received daily from men and women whose integrity and reliability are above question and in this connection a letter received from the Rev. Jas. H. Westbrook, of Bowne, Mich., may be of interest to piles sufferers who have sought in vain for a cure. He says:

I have used the Pyramid Pile Cure and I know that it is all that is claimed for it. I had been troubled with piles more or less for about eighteen years and I had tried other remedies, but the piles grew worse until about ten months ago I used the Pyramid Pile Cure. It gave almost instant relief and I have been free from piles ever since. Rev. Jas. H. Westbrook.

The remedy seems to act equally well in every form of piles, blind, bleeding, protruding or itching. It stops all pain almost immediately, allays irritation and removes constipation, and anyone who has suffered the annoyance and pain of a rectal trouble will appreciate the excellent results which invariably follow the first application of the Pyramid.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co. of Albion, Mich., and for sale by druggists everywhere.

Two sizes, 50 Cents and $1. Sold by all druggists.

FOX RAISING IN ALASKA.

Hopeful of Realizing Large Profits from the Sale of Many Pelts.

Fox farming in Alaska, which has assumed immense proportions, was originated by a Pittsburgher. In 1879 George Wardman was traveling about the coast in the steamer Rush. He saw a valuable black fox skin sold for $200, and conceived the notion that farming the fox would be profitable. He got Peach Taylor, Thomas F. Morgan and James C. Redpath interested, and a company was formed. The gentlemen are agents of the Alaska Commercial company at St. George.

Morgan suggested as a place for the experiment the Semedies group of seventy rocky islets, sixty miles west of Kodiak, which produced nothing but sea birds and sea lions, and are uninhabited. At the seal islands of the Pribyloff group the Alaska Commercial Company catch 1,000 to 1,600 blue foxes every winter. The black foxes are scarce, while the blue fox is not nearly so valuable.

During the winter of 1880 arrangements were made with an agent at Kodiak to get some black fox cubs. He secured half a dozen, and while he was away on business the natives killed the cubs by kindness and by overfeeding them. No more of the cubs could be found, and no further effort to carry out the scheme was made until the summer of 1884, when about twenty blue fox cubs were caught. They were taken in a steamer to Unalaska and thence in a chartered schooner, with a quantity of seal meat, to the Semedies Islands, where they were released.

The islands are inaccessible except in calm weather, which helped the enterprise, as it kept poachers and Indians from catching the stock. At first it was difficult to get any right on the land. The treasury department, however, addressed a letter to revenue steamers and the provisional government of Alaska, to give their protection to the fox farmers under the law protecting squatters, and the company has not been molested in its enterprise.

The foxes eat eggs and catch birds in the summer. They are also adepts at killing sea lions, which serve them for food. They are very intelligent. They take the eggs in summer and hide them in the thick moss, which is like mattresses, and leave them until they get hungry in winter and can find nothing else to eat. If they hid the eggs in the dirt they would be unable to scratch the frozen ground away from them in winter, hence the wisdom displayed in covering them with moss. The foxes have been watched during the months of July and August on the cliffs searching for eggs, and have been tracked to their hiding places.

The blue fox pelt is valued at $15, and as seals become scarcer it becomes more valuable. All attempts to catch black foxes have proved failures, as they are so scarce. Natives are hired to live on the island and watch the foxes. The latter are trapped in certain seasons, killed, and skinned. The carcasses are valueless, as the Indians, who will eat almost anything, will not touch the fox meat. The number has multiplied from twenty cubs to about 5,000 foxes, and they have been trapped every season since they were large enough to be of value. Mr. Wardman sold his interest to Byron Andrews of Washington.

Two Boys Lost Underground.

Hazleton, Pa., Special: The curiosity of Edward Boyle and William MacFarlane, aged 12 years, led them into a coal mine yesterday. In the afternoon they conceived the idea of taking the trip. Fearing that they would be prevented from doing so, their preparations were made without the knowledge of any other person. Together they picked their way into the recesses of the mine. After penetrating the gloomy passageways for a considerable distance, they struck a reverse current of air suddenly, which extinguished the lamp they carried. They had not thought of guarding against such an emergency, and found themselves in darkness. How to get out was then the serious question. They did not know which way to turn. Their cries for assistance were answered only by the echo, which reverberated through the subterranean tunnels, and added to the chill of fear which took possession of them. They could not get out. Miners in going to work this morning were surprised to find the lads on the gangway. They were piloted to the surface and sent to their homes, where their parents were anxiously awaiting them.

VENO, VENO, A TREMENDOUS CROWD Gathered Around His Chariot on the Street Last Night.

He Will Cure a Bad Case of Rheumatism Tonight.

A large crowd gathered around the Veno carriage last evening to hear the celebrated doctor talk about the wonderful merits of Veno's English system of treatment for rheumatism and kindred diseases. Never did a man come to this city with a better reputation and a more surprising record of remarkable cures than the Veno doctor. He is in possession of numberless affidavits which have been tendered him as testimonials of the most remarkable cures performed by the use of his remedies after they had been turned out of his hospitals and given up as incurable by the local physicians.

Last night Veno had his chariot inclosed and took Mr. Nicholas Crotsenberg of 28 Milwaukee avenue, in charge, and had an assistant apply Venos Electric Fluid to his rheumatic body and partially paralyzed arms and lower limbs which had been in that condition for three years past. In forty minutes the application was concluded and everybody was surprised at his improved condition. He could walk up and down in the chariot, raise his arm to his head, and use his fingers, and did walk down the steps and through the crowd to his home. It is considered wonderful as he had been disabled so long.

Tonight Veno will lecture from his chariot on the street, and perform another wonderful cure on a well-known citizen. Don't fail to see it. Veno's remedies are imported and differ from anything purchased in this country, and never fail to cure in case of rheumatism, spinal, kidney, liver or stomach ailments, consumption, catarrh, deafness, gravel, seminal weakness, contracted cords, weak joints or limbs, blood diseases from any cause whatever, and receive a permanent cure. Diseases of women a specialty; consultation and advice free at his parlors, Park hotel. Hours 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

NO TREASURY BILLS

The project of issuing treasury bills will not find favor as long as there are other ways to provide the treasury with needed revenue. The proposed certificates to whatever extent issued, would be so much of an addition to the public debt and there can be no valid excuse for increasing the debt in time of peace. The only business like course to pursue for the protection of the treasury is to provide for more revenue and everybody understands how this may be done. A few changes in the tariff increasing duties, and the transfer of a few articles from the free to the dutiable list, is the direct and simple way by which the problem can be solved. But this way Mr. Cleveland will not approve and hence the administration is employing its ingenuity in devising plans to avoid the legitimate means of protecting the treasury.

It is entirely safe to say that the republicans of the Fifty-fourth congress will not favor any such expedients. Democratic policy is responsible for the condition of the treasury and all the embarrassments incident thereto, and it is absurd to expect that the republicans in view of the popular protest against the policy, will help to sustain and perpetuate it by adopting recommendations of the administration having that end in view.

SUNDAY CLOSING.

There is likely to be a formidable movement, not only by the thrifty majority of the people of New York city, but by all the cities of the state for the repeal or modification of the law forbidding the sale of beer or liquor on Sunday. That a tremendous organized pressure will be brought to bear on the New York legislature at its next session to this end there is no doubt. It is hardly probable that it will result in the repeal of the law so as to legalize the present practice in all the other cities of New York in disregard of the law. But it is more than likely that there will be a modification of the law on the basis of some compromise between the sentiment of the religious and temperance organizations which are opposed to any liquor selling on Sunday and the sentiment of the multitude, which demands an unrestricted freedom of Sunday potations. It is going to be a very serious and very difficult question for the legislature to settle. A form of local option that will allow each city to say for itself whether saloons may be opened on Sunday during certain hours is likely to be the outcome.

KEELEY LAW IN JAMESVILLE

The Madison Democrat discusses the working of the Keeley law in Jamesville, and, hide-bound partisan that the Democrat has become, it sides with the Recorder. It says: "If The Gazette is credible, grave danger exists that the democratic minority in Rock county may totally disappear when most needed, as a result of the measure. The Gazette declares that of the fourteen men sent to the Keeley cure from Rock county, only one was a republican. Here then is ground enough why the Recorder should decry the law. The awkwardness that might arise about election time, for example, through the connivance of a republican probate judge and his fellow partisans in depopulating the county of democratic electors while swelling the attendance at Keeley institutes, is by no means so obscure that it is not appreciable even to the circumscribed understanding of the editor of the Recorder; hence, is it any wonder, pray, that he should zealously endeavor to create an issue with anti-jag legislation as the bone of contention?"

There will be very few horseless carriages bought for family use this year. At present, the article in its complete form, costs between $1,000 and $1,500. This, however, is the imported machine. When our own inventors and manufacturers have set their wits at work we may have something more within the reach of modest means, but it will be a long time before the horseless carriage will be the poor man's toy.

Neal Dow says the reason Maine hasn't been able to get prohibition with forty-four years of prohibition laws, is because of a few debased politicians. Perhaps; but haven't the people had something to do with it? A few debased politicians certainly couldn't have stowed away all the liquor that has gone to Maine since 1851.

It must be something in the air and not the fault of his education, that has led Rev. Mr. Starkweather to err so grievously while mayor of Superior. Now that the mayor of Ashland, with no hint of divinity school training, has fallen by the wayside, a new hypothesis for the weakness of northern Wisconsin officials must be found.

Can Frank Flower's disappointment have convinced all those northern Wisconsin mayors that it doesn't pay to be good? First Superior, then Ashland, furnishes a boodling case. Who is next?

BY A RUNAWAY HORSE.

Several Persons Badly Hurt at Indianapolis, Ind.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—A runaway horse came dashing down Washington street at 10 o'clock yesterday morning when the crowd had assembled on the sidewalks to witness the Labor-day parade, and created a panic along the entire length of the street. At Delaware street the frightened animal turned to the sidewalk, and, without a moment's warning, dashed into the crowd that stood on the pavement. There was a stampede of men, women and children for the court-house yard, but before they could reach a place of safety six persons were run down and more or less seriously injured, one receiving hurts that will prove fatal. The injured:

Aukenbrock, Herman, skull crushed by the horse's hoof; fatally injured.

Dennis, Alie, struck over the eye with the point of the shaft, producing concussion of the brain.

Patton, Reddy, cut on the head by a buggy wheel.

Swiggert, Edward, knocked down and run over; leg broken.

Swiggert, Gertrude, bruised about the body; carried away unconscious.

Walters, Mrs. Maria, knocked down and badly bruised about the head.

Several men grabbed the horse and succeeded in throwing him down on the pavement and thus prevented further injury.

SILKEN FABRICS.

Silk Lined Cloaks—Changeable Materials and Canvas Woven Silk.

Black, brightened with any of the popular colors, is in the height of fashion, and thin black made up over color is among the most becoming and stylish of combinations. A great deal of exceedingly fine jet is used, and embroidery and lace enter into the makeup of nine-tenths of the most popular dresses of the year. Cloaks and mantles lined with bright and light silks are multiplying. Some of them are exceedingly simple, relying upon their tint for a fashionable effect, or upon a novel hood or a new cut of collar. Others are trimmed with gauze ruffles, ruffles of lace and knots fastened here and there. Buttoned redingotes are an autumn feature and are an ample protection for delicate gowns as well as a serviceable kind of carriage cloak. Capes with high collars are again seen, as cold weather approaches, those meant for evening wear being long and ample and lined with silk. The close jacket with two rows of buttons holds its ground, as usual.

"Dress up" out of door gowns are made of glace silk and all medium weight materials with changeable effects. An attractive dress is made of canvas woven silk fabric worn over any bright color. The canvas is made of the natural silk fiber and is therefore a sort of ponce color or in paler shades to an ecru. A fashion writer says that some silk fiber is yellow in tone and some of a pearl whiteness, and between these two tints there are many shades. The difference in color is said to depend upon the food of the silkworm, and it is suggested that the worms be fed on artificially colored food in order to produce natural silk in fashionable shades.

The toilet illustrated is of silk, having a white ground crossed by bars of blue and gray, with a broche pattern in the two colors. The bodice is plain. The bodice, which ends at the waist without a belt, is fitted behind, while in front it is laid in three plaits at each side, confined by two blue silk buttons. There is a single plait in the middle of the back, while the middle of the front is filled by a gathered chemisette of blue gauze. A wider belt of blue silk confines the chemisette, but does not surround the waist. The bouffant sleeves are draped at the elbow by a button. JUDIC CHOLLET.

TOILET ACCESSORIES.

Gloves and Coats—Why the Latter Do Not Fit.

White kid gloves with black stitching are exceedingly fashionable—white glace kid, not suede. Black kid gloves are permissible, of either kid or silk, but the latter must be tight. The difficulty is that in buying a narrow silk glove it is almost impossible to obtain fingers long enough to last well. If the fingers are long enough, the glove is too wide. It is the same way with ready made gowns and coats. Any garment that is full enough across the bust is usually much too wide across the back, while if the back fits properly the garment will not meet in front. It is owing to this peculiar mode of construction that there is nearly always so much alteration to be made when bodices and jackets are bought. The imported ones often fit very well without changes, but those of domestic make are cut to fit a board, to all appearance. It usually requires two sessions with the fitter to get them into shape.

The Marie Antoinette fchu continues to be fashionable, whether it is of goods like the dress (in such case the latter being very light) or of net, lace, mousseline de sole or crape over silk or wool goods. In Paris it is threatening the position of the blouse and is seen in point d'esprit, gauze and tulle. Speaking of tulle, a new variety of Greek tulle has made its appearance of a cream white, with a changeable effect of palest green, with a pattern of black spangles. This promises to be fashionable for ball dresses during the winter and will be worn over a colored lining.

The gown illustrated is of lizard green diagonal. It has a plain bodice over a red silk lining. Bretelles of lizard green satin are fastened at the neck and the waist by choix of red satin. The gigot sleeves are of diagonal. A black felt hat accompanies the gown and is trimmed with lizard green satin ribbon and red chrysanthemums. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THAT "LONDON HIT" NEVER SAW LONDON

"A THOROUGHbred" INTERESTING IN MANY WAYS.

Arthur Lumley Who Put the Piece By That Name on the Boards a Year Ago Wouldn't Recognize It Today—Manager Mills Plans Some More Changes.

Ralph Lumley would have wept had he seen "A Thoroughbred" last night. Lumley is the author.

He is English, but that's no excuse for taking liberties with him as those actors did last night. Is it?

Even a foreigner has feelings. Lumley wrote "A Thoroughbred" for Toole's theatre in London. The best of English comedies are brought out at Toole's and "A Thoroughbred" ranked with any of them. Critics gave it considerable space, and New York managers read the notices and pined for the piece.

One of them got it. At least so Manager J. H. Mills told a Gazette reporter last night. The impression given by comparing the London and Janesville play bills was that whoever was told to "get it" went into the pantry and grabbed in the dark.

Manager Mills was very certain the piece presented last night was the original version direct from "Lunnon." It was advertised as such and the biggest letters in the print shop were used on the words "Great London Success of the Season." The distribution of parts last night, however, wasn't quite the same as in the London production.

For example the characters in the piece last night were: Willie Green, (the thorough bred), Cal Kingsley, Jethro Larkin, Mr. O'Malley, Ferret, Hawk, Kate Larkin, Mrs. Strongminded and Janet.

Somewhat of a Difference. As Mr. Lumley wrote it the parts were: Lord Sandacre, the Hon. Blenkinsopp Carlingham (his son), John Rimple (mayor of Upcom), A. V. Decker (a wealthy American), Claude Nizril, Jeb Tosh, Jennings, Wokeham, the Hon. Miss Wilhelmnia Carlingham, Miss Pallington, Mrs. Rimple, Delia Rimple.

Mr. Lumley laid his scenes as follows: 1—The Monastery Garden. 2—Polo Lodge, Ascot. 3—Mr. Decker's Dr. Ascot.

Mr. Lumley didn't know his business. When his American collaborators tackled the piece they moved all the scenes to Long Branch except one and in this they made a white Methodist Episcopal church like the one at Emerald Grove represent the "heart of Wall street." They made the story turn on a villain with a misfit laugh and a longing to unload watered stock. As Lumley wrote it the central figure was a wealthy young American who was buying country houses by the dozen and tally-ho coaches by the score in an effort to shine in English swifdom. And, by the way, no American ever heard that young man talk and refrain from tears. The mixture of Arkansas, Idaho, Virginia, Indiana and New England twang that he offered as typical "United States" would have driven James Whitcomb Riley crazy.

Will Give Any Version Desired. Enough of this, however.

The comparison between the two productions was prompted solely and alone by desire to see what changes an English comedy goes through before it is seen on this side. The changes are sweeping, if last night was any indication. Close observation did not reveal a single line, situation or scene having a parallel in the original production. Nothing but the name had been retained. Even the fun had been left out.

"Oh, yes, we have made a few changes in it," said Manager Mills as he finished taking tickets at the door, and prepared to go on the stage in a third act and impersonate the detective. "I'm not satisfied with it, yet, however. I think I'll put on an entire new first act by next week."

So, if the "Great London Success of the Season" plays a return date in Janesville, it may be demonstrated that even wider departures from the author's text are possible.

The Play Trilby Should be as Popular as the Book.

There was no difference of opinion among the members of the large audience gathered at the Park Theatre last evening to witness the first representation on the stage of DuMaurier's famous novel. The play Trilby is a grand success. It should become as popular as the book. Mr. Potter has made a play that fairly teems with action and dramatic effect. Every situation is reasonable and natural; there are no anti-climaxes, no repetition, no extraneous theatrial devices, and the development of the story is logical and consistent at all times. A company of admirable players has been brought together by Manager Palmer for the interpretation of "Trilby." Every role is taken by a competent person and there is an attention to minor details that is most commendable—"Boston Globe."

RIVAL NINES MEET TO WIN OUT OR DIE

EVANSVILLE VS. EDGERTON ON NEUTRAL GROUND.

Each Nine Has Won a Game So They Came To Janesville To Fight Out "The Rubber" Where Neither Team Would Have Any Advantage Big Crowds Came To See The Fun.

All of Edgerton, the whole of Evansville, half of Albany, a big slice of Brohead and big delegations from all the intervening towns thronged into Janesville today.

And they brought $ with them to bet. The two towns each put $150 into the purse which was to go to the champion together with sixty per cent. of the gate receipts and unlimited glory.

For this they "fit." The great American game was responsible for this outpouring of people. Almost before the snow began to melt on the hills adjacent to and round about the tobacco town last spring, a ball team was organized therein.

They went into training and became at length, athletes mighty to behold. They mowed down the country bumpkins, the Seyene Cyclones, the Albion Athletes and the Fulton Fumblers with remarkable ease. Then they took a whirl at the Palmyra Pond Lilies, the Jefferson Jugglers, the Watertown Warriors and divers and sundry teams and aggregations that considered themselves the masters of base ball as she is played. All went down before the Edgerton men and the streets were filled with the wailing citizens.

Then came a fall.

Evansville Did Likewise. Evansville, in the meantime, had been constructing a base ball team on similar lines. The men from the town where tracks are made, also did good work on the diamond. They defeated all who came along and made for themselves a reputation of being hard to beat.

Then the Edgerton and Evansvilles both "swelled up."

Both nines had beaten all comers, and naturally enough, they sighed for each others' scalps.

Finally they met at Edgerton. The skies were rent, the turf torn up by spiked shoes, and the Edgerton people became discouraged and sore cast down.

Evansville won the game. But Edgerton did not long remain discouraged. In the meantime they played the Magnolia Blossoms, the Porter Pugilists, and several other nines, and their confidence returned.

"Now we're in shape to tackle Evansville again," they said, and the game was arranged. It took place at Evansville, and the betting ran high. People yelled themselves hoarse; the Edgerton ball players tried all their muscles—and won. Then the Edgerton people went home. They took their victorious team along, together with about $2,000 in Evansville cash. Their base ball boys owned the town. The cover was taken from the ice cream soda barrels and the athletes reveled in all the luxuries that the town afforded.

To Meet On Neutral Ground.

Thus the two towns went wild. They reached across the farms between the towns and pulled each other's hair. Evansville said they could wipe the earth with Edgerton—in Evansville.

Edgerton said they could hang Evansville's hide on any fence—in Edgerton.

At this juncture a compromise was effected. Both sides admitted that the fence about Athletic Park, in Janesville, was a good one on which to hang a hide, so they agreed to come and fight it out. Edgerton people came in on the morning trains, while a string of carriages extended from Indian Ford to the Hower City. The Albany crowd yelled came to "root" for "Cal" Broughton, for Frank Broughton, Senior, for Frank Broughton Junior, and for Ray Broughton. All of Rock and Green counties, not to speak of Dane county, was represented in the Evansville team. Runkel, the prize pitcher of the University of Wisconsin team was to go into the box, while "Howdy" Cassaboino, the prize man of the Madison city team, was scheduled to play in the short stop's position. The nine came in at noon, preceded by the Evansville band, tooting defiantly.

Edgerton, Too, Had "Leaguers."

But in this respect Evansville had none the better of Edgerton. The tobacco town enthusiasts had also hired a few "old leaguers." Retter, their pitcher, was a Milwaukee man as was also Miller who was said to be cast for a star post on second base. Then Roessler, the first baseman, was Jefferson's best player. "Pat" Holleran, one of Janesville's experts, was assigned to the short stop's position.

Both sides wanted to bet, and both were confident when the teams marched into the field this afternoon, and when the umpire called "play ball" at 3 o'clock, the teams appeared on the score book as follows.

Edgerton. Position. Evansville. Sullivan.....C. Broughton. Retter.....P. Runkel. Holleran.....SS. Nichols. Roessler.....1B. Minton. Warner.....2B. Stewart. Bushner.....3B. Possel. Whitsett.....C. Cassaboino. Gilman. Crall.....LF. Langer. Umpire—Harvey Clark, of Madison.

As the above roster will show, many of the players whose names were on the score card did not play, their places being taken by professionals who had been kept under cover. Edgerton had Will McGinley, of the Dubuque team, who is home on a vacation, on the bench, so that they could put him in to pitch if they desired. Two innings had been played at 3:30 o'clock the score standing 2 to 0 in favor of Edgerton.

JOSEPH SHIELDS OVERCOME BY GAS

Got An Overdose While Working on Milwaukee Street.

Joseph Shields an employe of the New Gas Light company was overcome by gas while working in the ditch on West Milwaukee street this morning. Shields' fellow workmen noticed that he was turning pale and he was ordered out of the ditch. He complied and the others thinking that the air would soon revive Shields paid no attention to him. He was able to walk and did not seem to be seriously affected but when he entered Stillson's saloon to get some whisky—the best remedy in the world for asphyxiation—he staggered and fell in a faint. Dr. E. H. Dudley was called and attended Shields who soon recovered.

The work the company was engaged in is of a difficult nature, it being the placing of a cut off valve in the main at that point. The work is being done while the pressure is on the pipes, it being arrested as much as possible by the use of gas bags. One valve was gotten in position this morning so that one pipe can now be cut off while the other is being fixed. When the work on West Milwaukee street is completed, the company will put in valves on East Milwaukee street, not far from the corner of Main. The valves are being put in so that the gas can be cut off when it is necessary to make repairs under the Milwaukee street bridge and along the roadway under Milwaukee street, at which points considerable trouble is experienced in the winter.

THE YOUNG WIFE.

They say her smile was sweetest when she lay
In that entrancing power whose guise is sleep,
And I remember now it was her way
To smile in slumber deep!

Yet when I pressed the hand that lay so still And called her name and smoothed her pretty hair,
She answered not, nor soothed with her sweet will
My fond heart's crushing care.

How softly lay the laces on her breast—
Methought she was so lovely in repose
That surely paradise was still more blessed
In claiming my sweet rose.

A rose that thrived in sunshine or in shade Until at length death touched the tender bloom
And withered it just when it would have staid
To brighten in the gloom.

And then at this my heart fell crushed and blind,
I was but conscious of that vague unrest
And ceaseless yearning that doth fill the mind
When brooding death is guest.

Dear patient girl who was so loath to hear
A single word against my ruthless ways—
And who will guide me now with gentle fear
And who will speak my praise?

Oh, still she sleeps. * * * The jasmine blooms as then,
And nature bears its warm life from the deeps,
And summer birds sing lightly once again.
But still, alas! she sleeps.

—Omaha Bee.

THE COLONEL'S WIFE.

The rupture was all about a two acre field. Colonel Fairholme, J. P., wanted it to fill out a dent in his ring fence, and Sir George Warburton stepped in and bought it over his head.

"And you can consider your engagement at an end, sir," the colonel wrathfully informed his nephew and heir.
"No daughter of that sneak's shall be mistress of Broadwater."

Then Evelyn and Dick held a council of war on a neutral stile.

"I've had similar instructions," said the girl. "They're very much incensed at present, but it won't last. Within six weeks somebody will be giving a reconciliation dinner party. I know the dear old things so well."

But before the month was out Colonel Fairholme was on his way to Australia.

During the first few weeks after his arrival in Melbourne he communicated regularly either with his maiden sister or with Dick. Then there was a gap for a couple of mails, and Dick was getting uneasy and meditating a cable of inquiry when the anxiously expected letter arrived.

MY DEAR BOY—I have a piece of news for you which, I dare say, will surprise you very much. After being a confirmed bachelor for nearly 60 years, I have found my better half at last. I made her acquaintance at the table d'hotel here and we were married last Monday.

The lady is a great deal younger than myself, and I may say, without boasting, as charming in disposition as she is in appearance. You cannot fail to like her, and I am sure you will both be the best of friends.

We are leaving in a fortnight by the Ormuz, so you will know when to expect us.

HORACE FAIRHOLME.

P. S.—Please break the news gently as you can to your aunt.

H. F.

A few days after the letter came a brief note for Dick:

"Just a few lines to catch the mail.
There is a tiresome delay in the final arrangements, and I find that I cannot leave as soon as I hoped, as the berths are already booked for Ormuz. Adele will come on alone with her maid.
Meet her at Southampton. I shall follow by next orient boat."

Dick wondered a little at the arrangement, but did not fail to meet his uncle's wife when the time arrived. She was a tall woman of 28 or 30, undeniably handsome and desirous of winning the good graces of her husband's nephew.

Nevertheless Dick did not take a fancy to her. In fact, she rather repelled him. However, she quite won Miss Fairholme's simple soul by complimenting her upon her housekeeping and refusing to interfere with such admirable management, also she professed great interest in the estate.

"I am so fond of the country," she told them, "and your English scenery is so picturesque and homelike. I promise myself a ramble every morning before breakfast."

But one day Dick saw something which gave him the curious notion that, after all, it was not the beauties of nature that attracted her. He saw Mrs.
Fairholme walking briskly down the road outside to meet the postman—there was only one delivery in that part of the world—who was about to leave the Broadwater letters at the lodge.
She stopped the man, and he gave her an envelope, which she opened and read on the spot.

"Hum!" he reflected. "So Mrs. Fairholme is so anxious about her correspondence that she takes the trouble to go out and meet it at half past 7 a. m."

That afternoon he was at the village postoffice, and the postmaster, who was also the grocer, happened to be serving himself.

"I saw a letter for you with the Melbourne postmark on this morning, sir," he said, with the license of an old tenant. "I hope the colonel's well?"

William confirmed the statement emphatically, and furthermore volunteered the information that the new mistress of Broadwater had met him on the highway, near the lodge gates, and requested him to hand the letter over to her.

"Thanks," said Dick lightly. "Of course Mrs. Fairholme has forgotten to give it to me. I'll ask her about it."

Conscious of her duplicity, Dick could scarcely force himself to be civil to her.
But she appeared not to notice his mo-roseness, and in the evening after dinner she rose from the piano suddenly, as though on impulse.

"By the way," she said, "have you the key of the strongroom, Dick? I meant to ask you before and forgot. I should so much like to see the family jewels. Your uncle told me that he has some wonderful rubies which he brought from India. Bring them down, there's a dear boy!"

The "dear boy" obeyed without the best grace in the world, and Mrs. Fairholme admired the jewels and played with them all like a child with a new toy. But the rubies seemed especially to captivate her fancy.

"They are magnificent!" she said, and her eyes were almost as bright with excitement as the gems themselves. "I never saw anything like them. And the diamonds are fine too. But those old fashioned settings are horrible. I shall have them all reset at once. Do you know the address of a good jeweler?"

"Linklater of Bond street is one of the best, I believe. But, if you will excuse me saying so, don't you think the matter will keep till the colonel's return? I'm not sure that he would care to have them altered."

"Oh, he won't object if it is my wish," she said sweetly. "I am going into the town early tomorrow. I shall wire myself to Linklater's to send one of their people to fetch them."

He quietly ran up to London in the morning and paid a visit to Mr. Linklater, to whom he explained the circumstances and then requested that the stones should not be unset until they heard from the colonel himself.

"But, my dear sir," the jeweler said, "I know nothing of these jewels.
No such telegram as you mention has been received by us."

The September afternoon was waning when he got back to Broadwater, and Mrs. Fairholme, superb in a velvet dinner gown, swept across the hall to greet him.

"You tiresome fellow," she said playfully, "where have you been all day?
The man from Linklater's has been here since 3 o'clock waiting for you to come home with the strongroom keys."

There was a moment's pause, where in a dozen wild ideas flashed through Dick's brain. It was evident that Mrs.
Fairholme had merely used the pretext of wishing the jewels reset in order to get them out of the house.

"Oh, of course. I forgot. He has come for the jewels, hasn't he? I'll fetch them."

But when he reappeared his hands were empty.

"I'm awfully sorry, Mrs. Fairholme," he said coolly, "but I've mislaid my keys. I hope I haven't dropped them out of doors."

"I don't think it will be much use searching for them," she replied, with an unpleasant laugh. "I shall have a locksmith down from London the first thing in the morning. And the jeweler's man shall wait."

Dick wrote out a telegram and gave it to a groom with a sovereign. "Send it off at once, Rogers. And keep a still tongue in your head."

The message ran as follows:

To Colonel Fairholme, on board the Australian mail steamer Oratava at Naples:
Return overland. Imperative business.
Please don't fail.

Dick.

If the colonel obeyed, he would be at home in three days—that is to say, four days before he would have arrived under ordinary circumstances—four days before he was expected by Mrs. Fairholme.

When the locksmith arrived, Dick had a little private conversation with him, and a bank note changed hands. As the result, the man told Mrs. Fairholme that the job was a long one, and that he could not undertake to accomplish it under three days.

The mysterious man, who was not from Bond street, went away, and on the third afternoon returned, but the strongroom door was not opened yet.
The workman was awaiting instructions.

About 5 p. m. there was a rattle of wheels in the avenue, and somebody rang the front door bell.

The next moment the colonel, in traveling cap and ulster, stepped into the lamplight. She shrieked and sprang to her feet, overturning the bamboo table with a crash.

"Colonel Fairholme!" she gasped wildly. "Home already!"

"Mrs. Bellarmine! Bless me, what a remarkable thing! Why, I thought I had left you in Melbourne!"

"Then she's not your wife!" cried Dick aghast.

"My wife!" exclaimed his uncle, perplexed to irritability. "You know very well I have no wife, sir! I met this lady and her husband in Melbourne, and they very kindly nursed me through my bout of influenza. I told you so in my letters."

Of course the "man from Linklater's" was her husband, and the pair of adventurers, knowing the colonel's plans, had taken advantage of his illness to intercept his letters, forge substitutes to serve their own ends and make this bold attempt to steal the famous rubies.

The colonel beamed upon his nephew.

"And what shall I do for you, Dick,
for saving my rubies?"

"You can repay me very easily if you like, sir. Call upon Sir George Warburton."

The colonel made a grimace. But he went. And within two months Evelyn's prophecy was fulfilled.—Answers.

A Fruitful Desert.

The desert of Sahara is not all a desert. In 1892 more than 9,000,000 of sheep wintered in the Algerian Sahara, paying a duty of 1,763,000 francs ($352,000). These sheep were worth 20 francs ($4) apiece, or in all 175,000,000 francs. The Sahara nonrishes also 2,000,- 000 goats and 260,000 camels, paying a duty of 1,000,000 francs. In the oases palm, citrons and apricots abound; there are cultivated also onions, pimentos and various leguminous vegetables.
The oases contain 1,500,000 date palms, on which the duty is 560,000 francs.
The product of a date tree varies from 8 to 10 francs; these of the desert give about 15,000,000 a year.—New York Tribune.

He Wanted Work and Got It.

Frank Matthews has been in Chicago three weeks. He has answered all the advertisements he has seen, but in no instance was he successful in securing the coveted employment. Meanwhile his slender savings had become all but exhausted. Necessity proved the mother of invention, and, according to a Chicago paper, he took a great board about a foot square and marking on it in big black letters,

WORK WANTED.

he fastened it on his breast and took up his beat among the commission houses. A great many people stopped him, but none offered him work. He walked several other down town streets, the object of the same curiosity. At last one man gave him a situation.

Saved from Death by Grasshoppers.

James Clone, a farmer of Stonyford,
N. Y., believes grasshoppers saved him from death by an enraged bull. Mr.
Clone was crossing a large, open field, when the bull pursued him. The farmer ran as fast as possible, but the bull steadily gained on him, and when nearly exhausted a small clump of bushes was passed, from which arose a large cloud of grasshoppers. The insects struck the infuriated animal in the face and it turned aside. Mr.
Clone escaped from the field unharmed.

Clever Indian Horseman.

An interesting illustration of the Indian's clever horsemanship was given by a young buck at Wilbur, Wash., a few days ago. Carrying in his hand an ordinary cup brimful of water, he rode on a cayuse at full gallop the length of the main street and returned without spilling so much as a drop of the water.

A Probable Solution.

He had sent it to all the magazines,
But so cheap they seemed to hold it,
Its rejections were numbered in the 'teens,
Until one day—he sold it!

But the reason why his story was bought,
Young Scribbler couldn't unravel,
Until he was struck by a brilliant thought;
It had been "improved by travel!"

The Narcoti Chemical Co.,
Springfield, Mass.
Gentlemen:—I have used tobacco for over twenty-five years, chewing and smoking every day from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. stopping only for meals.
On Monday, February 4, I called at your office in Springfield, and bought a bottle of the Cure which I used as directed and on the tenth day the desire for tobacco had left me and has not returned. I did not lose a meal while taking the cure. My appetite has improved and I consider Narcoti-Cure a grand thing.
Very respectfully,
CHAS. I. LINCOLN.

SUMMER IN FRANCE.

The Most Delightful Country in this Wide World.

The people in France make a much simpler affair of every-day life than we, and thus find more time for recreation, which, indeed, is so much a matter of course with them that there is no trace of effort about their little diversions. Where a garden is possible, it becomes furnished with a table and chairs, a much-used outdoor room, roofed with that dome some three miles high of soft dappled gray and yellow cloud, through the vast lattice work whereof the blue sky peeps. There in pleasant weather the children play among the lilac bushes and the mignonette; there the elders resort with needlework and newspapers; and there a simple meal is often served. How well appreciated are the public gardens of Paris any fine day will show. Groups of happy people along the main walks, or in some out-of-the-way nook of the lovely gardens, seem entirely at home as they quietly make the most of their opportunities for pleasure.

A pleasant feature of some French houses is a porch before the entrance door partly enclosed with glass. One such vine-clad summer parlor, opening into its tiny Paris garden, was a most refreshing contrast to the glaring, dusty street from which it was all hidden by a high wall. With its cool summer furnishings, and large ornamental plants in green tubs, it made a delightful reception room for visitors, while a little round table with its load of work baskets and books bore evidence of the family liking for this summer rendezvous. In a pretty country house the space between two projecting wings was roofed and fronted with glass. The room thus gained was one of the most interesting of its kind, being graced with an extensive collection of the ferns of the locality, and guarded by a pair of curious Chinese idols holding back the opened door on either side.

To the American in France it never ceases to be a wonder where so much leisure for out-of-door life is found, particularly as it does not follow that home duties are shirked to obtain it. Indeed, the proverbial French thrift is in no way better shown than in the readiness with which French women take a share in the work of the household, even in well-to-do families, and this without loss of dignity, since custom sanctions the keeping of few servants in France. And but few servants are needed, as no baking or laundering is done at home, and polished floors do away at once with dust, and that tearing-up and setting-to-rights process which we call house-cleaning. It would seem that they arrange their days, as well as their household affairs, wisely in France, and are skilled in the happy art of making the most of each one as it passes. For, however busy the morning hours may be, in most French homes the long afternoon finds household cares laid aside for a time, while rest and quiet enjoyment take their place.

Perhaps one secret of this wonderful leisure may lie in the fact that French mothers, strange as it may seem, do not consider it one of the cardinal virtues always to have cake in the house, and it really was not evident that the children suffered at all in consequence. It is, therefore, quite possible that the pleasant sight of mothers spending whole happy afternoons with their children out in the open air may be partly owing to this great lack of ambition in cake making.

The little baskets which French children carry with them to their much-loved parks and gardens are usually supplied with a generous piece of one of the long French loaves of bread, and a bar or two of sweetened chocolate. A few sons procure this quite sufficient lunch, as well as time for those pleasant little expeditions—it may be only to the nearest public garden—which they like and so well know how to arrange in sunny France.—American Agriculturist.

BEAUTY.

HOW TO INCREASE IN WEIGHT AND OTHERWISE IMPROVE ONE'S PERSONAL APPEARANCE.

Every normally constituted man and woman wants to look well. This is natural and right. We have little sympathy for those people who through indolence or gluttony have permitted themselves to take on too much flesh. They know that by living abstemiously and taking plenty of exercise they can get back to their normal weight.

We do however have a great deal of sympathy for those poor, pale, thin sufferers who either have no appetite or else whose food distresses them to such a degree that they are forced to live on a most frugal diet.

"Going into a decline." How often do we hear this expression. What does it mean? It means that people are losing flesh, growing thin, wasting.

Their trouble arises from the fact that they are unable to digest sufficient food and when the stomach is out of order and fails to do its proper work, food is worse than useless. They simply ferment in the stomach and fill the system with poisonous principles.

What these people need is something that will digest their food after it has been eaten, and it is in just such cases that the Digestive Cordial as made by the Mount Lebanon Shakers is proving remarkably successful.

It is so prompt in its action that a sense of relief almost immediately follows the first dose, and a rapid increase in weight is soon noted. The Shakers have issued an interesting pamphlet which may be obtained upon inquiry at any drug store.
